Subject: Lake Allure

I understand that you may be looking for well test results for the Lake Allure water system. This system is a community water system governed by the State of Nebraska Health Department. This system tests for everything any community system must test for. If you are looking for a specific test, we can provide that. (also available on the Health Dept website). As we test for as many as 3,000 different things over a one year period I'm not able to get all of these to you. Just to clarify, the Lake Allure water system must test for all of the requirements of a Community water system in Nebraska. I realize that some home lenders don't realize this is a community system not a private well.
